English 12 CP Short Story Elective

I. Course Synopsis

In addition to gaining a strong knowledge of classic and contemporary short stories and the authors who penned each, students attending this course gain an understanding that fictional literature can be used as a lens to help us better identify and define what is “acceptable” and “unacceptable” in our culture and society today.

In other words, fictional works help us to better understand our successes and failures as a people. Often, through the artistic exploration of our greatest celebrations and tragedies, we are able to better understand the world that surrounds us. The selected examples used in this course, both classic and contemporary, are the vehicles which will help students to better understand today’s many complex social values and expediencies.

II. Philosophy & Rationale

In that literature provides students a lens onto the world, it is the goal of the English Department to provide the students in this course with an understanding of the historical/cultural/social contexts of department-selected essential texts. Throughout this semester course, students will develop and refine the necessary skills to better understand the value and importance of literature in our culture and society today through an exploration of the short story genre. For example, by partaking in classroom activities and discussions, students will be better prepared for the world that awaits them outside of their high school experiences. A focus on higher-level teacher-directed questions and student-centered opportunity for inquiry-based reading and research support our process. Ultimately, our aim is for students to develop the skills to fulfill the requirements of the New Jersey Student Learning Standards and, in doing so, gain increased rigorous competence in reading, writing and critical thinking.

Differentiated instruction for students at different levels of achievement and specific learning needs (e.g. special education, English language learners, at-risk and Gifted & Talented) is embedded in targeted scaffolding based on knowledge of each student’s interests and assessment data.

A. Reading Scaffolding

Based on research on reading from the past forty years, the Fair Lawn English Department supports the three reading principles reported by Richard Allington (2003). Specifically, 1) students read better when they read more; 2) students learn from their reading when they have consistent opportunities to discuss and write about their reading; and 3) students need explicit instruction in reading comprehension strategies.

Reading More

In addition to curriculum-driven reading activities, independent reading is provided to support the various interests and learning needs of all students. Teachers facilitate student opportunities to read books-of-choice and timely texts as part of classroom curriculum and instruction. In particular, reading conferences and, at times, project-based assignments foster a meaningful reading experience with differentiated rigor.

The following questions support proficient reading reflection:

[A good reader asks...]

- What reading strategies impact comprehension?
- How does what you experience in life impact your interpretation of text?
- What additional perspectives are necessary for an enhanced understanding of the text?
- What parts of the text are most significant? Why?
- What is the author's purpose?
- What do you want to know more about?
- How is the study of academic vocabulary and vocabulary words in texts vocabulary so vital to a rigorous exploration of a text?

Sharing Ideas about Reading

In addition to written discussion and small-group collaboration, the Fair Lawn English Department engages students in purposeful paired discussions to share and process information more effectively. The following process may be used to operationalize "Turn and Talk" (Harvey & Daniels, 2009) as part of the classroom culture.

1. Explain the importance of actively sharing our thinking with a partner.
2. Teach the practice of partner conversation by reading a short text silently and modeling turn-and-talk guidelines. Ask students to notice the following: use eye contact; listen attentively, ask follow-up questions, disagree politely, share connections, and express reactions.
3. In guided practice, ask students to report their noticings. Create a classroom anchor chart that provides expectations for partner conversation. Choose a student-friendly topic and give it a go.

4. Provide consistent opportunities for partner conversations with deliberate student pairings. Whereas some prompts may be open-ended (e.g. What do you wonder about the text?), other prompts may be more specific (e.g. What was the main character's motivation? Or, what is the most important information in the text?)

Explicit Instruction in Reading Strategy

In-class reading of grade-level texts is supported by the application of reading strategies as noted in Harvey Daniels and Nancy Steineke's Texts and Lessons for Content-Area Reading (2010), provided to all English department members. Teachers target Tier II words (i.e. high frequency words used across content areas) and Tier III words (content-specific vocabulary words) and teach the words before they are encountered in the text. Pre-reading, during-reading, and post-reading strategies promote strategic thinking. For example, "Think Aloud" (p. 62), "Pair Reading" (p. 66), and "Text Annotation" (p.41) are explained within model lessons by Daniels and Steineke (2010). One culminating goal is to model proficient reading behaviors such as higher order questioning and an enthusiastic passion for inquiry while gradually releasing this skill work to more strategic-thinking students.

B. Writing Scaffolding

Writing instruction in the Fair Lawn English Department includes a balance of student journaling, open-ended responses, and formative writing assessments. In the end, students complete summative processed and timed writing in designated writing genres. Teachers confer and write specific and individualized feedback to support revision during the writing process. Students will write on a variety of subjects, in a variety of genres, for a variety of readers.

The following questions support proficient writing reflection [A good writer asks...]:

- Why must the purpose of the writer be determined?
- What makes a piece of writing effective?
- Why is it important to have a cogent thesis statement or arguable claim?
- Why are supporting details essential in argument-based writing?
- How could voice be employed to engage the writer's audience?
- Why is it important, in terms of meaning, to use correct grammar conventions and organizational structure?

Processed Writing Resources:

The Purdue Online Writing Lab (OWL) web site (<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/>) provides explicit writing instruction to foster the writing process: prewriting, drafting, sharing, revising, editing, proofreading, and publishing. Some important teaching points that are detailed on the OWL web site include: an introduction to prewriting, tips for writing a thesis statement, paragraphing in academic writing, and an updated MLA formatting and style guide.

The PARCC web site provides resources including standards-aligned rubrics for narrative writing and expository writing. These rubrics serve as starting points for teacher-driven writing rubrics that are created with Fair Lawn English students in mind. For example, the Fair Lawn English Department created a common midterm essay exam rubric that delineates a standards-based expectation for literary analysis with explicit expectations for student voice.

Each writing assignment is supported with a clear writing expectation as represented in a writing rubric. The Fair Lawn English Language Arts Department has adopted the following expository essay criteria (posted on the next page) in partnership with the First Year Writing Program at Montclair State University (as published on the Montclair State University First Year Writing web site for students at: <https://www.montclair.edu/chss/first-year-writing/first-year-writing-program-students/student-writing-assessment/>). Individual teachers may present these standards in slightly different language, and their comments on student work may not address every item on this list.

Fair Lawn English Department Writing Criteria

- Central Claim: The central claim (also called thesis or main point) guides both writer and readers. This central claim should be reflected—sometimes directly, sometimes indirectly—in each paragraph of a successful essay. A good central claim is not obvious; it is debatable, worthy of discussion.
- Development: A successful essay is rich with examples, evidence, and discussion. The writer develops—substantiates, explains, and illustrates—all of his or her points.
- Organization: A successful essay is one that is organized clearly and logically. A well-organized essay provides readers with an engaging opening, well-constructed paragraphs, appropriate transitional cues between paragraphs and sections, and a satisfying ending.
- Analysis: A successful essay demonstrates analysis, when the writer is thinking on the page. It consists of the moments when the writer connects evidence to a central claim through logic and careful reflection. Analysis is evident when a writer connects one piece of evidence with a larger phenomenon or theorizes about a specific quality. Analysis is asking and addressing questions. Analysis is discussion.
- Clarity of Prose: A successful essay is characterized by clarity of prose, which comes not only from demonstrated mastery of English grammar, usage, and mechanics but also from careful proofreading. Clarity is further enhanced through elegant, well-constructed sentences.

III. Scope & Sequence

There are three thematic short story-based units (Units 1-3); the goal is to study each unit for one-third of the semester. Vocabulary, Literary Terms, and Grammar is embedded in each unit.

Unit 1: The Importance of the Short Story

7 weeks

Topic 1: The Value of the Short Story

- A. "Introduction to the Best American Short Stories of the Century John Updike
- B. "The Story of an Hour" Kate Chopin
- C. "A Well-Lighted Place" Ernest Hemingway

Topic 2: How Literature Enforces Social and Cultural Norms

- A. "The Lottery" Shirley Jackson
- B. "The Necklace" Guy de Maupassant
- C. "Thank You Ma'am" Langston Hughes
- D. "Farwell Summer" Ray Bradbury (with contemporary connections)

Unit 2: The Short Story and War

7 weeks

Topic 1: Conflicts of War

- A. "The Old Man at the Bridge" Hemingway
- B. "War" Luigi Pirandello
- C. "The Things They Carry" by Tim O'Brien (with contemporary connections)

Topic 2: Hemmingway Man/Myth

- A. "In Another Country" Hemingway
- B. "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" Hemingway
- C. "A Well-Lighted Place" Hemingway

Unit 3: Justice for All?

6 weeks

Topic 1: Flaws in the Constitution?

- A. "The Lynching of Jube Benson" by Paul Laurence Dunbar
- B. "A Party Down the Square" Ralph Ellison (with contemporary connections)

Topic 2: Scapegoat: Civility of the Civil Rights Movement

- A. "A Party Down at the Square" by Ralph Ellison
- B. "Those Who Walk from Omela's" by Ursualla K. Lequin

Continuous Units (These units are taught throughout the school year):

Unit 4: Vocabulary, Literary Terms, and Grammar

1. Assign and define vocabulary words and literary terms from context
2. Apply the vocabulary words and literary terms to students' own writing
3. Apply relevant grammatical terms and concepts to students' own written and verbal communication

IV. Sample Unit Description

Enduring Understandings:

1. Literature helps us to better gauge and understand the value of social norms on society and within a given culture.
2. Storytelling is a cultural and artistic process that helps us to better understand the norms of our society and culture on a daily basis.

Essential Questions:

1. How can literature be used as a tool to clarify the rules of a given culture and society as well as help us to define success in our society?
2. Are successes and happiness or a means to achieve such offered in all the short stories?

Learning Objectives:

Teachers use New Jersey Student Learning Standards to create specific, behavioral and measurable goals. Individual unit and/or lesson objectives will derive directly from the language of the grade-specific standards for Grades 11 and 12; teachers will look to the more general anchor standards for guidance. In turn, specific New Jersey Student Learning Standards have been designated as learning targets for this unit. The comprehensive are available at: <http://www.state.nj.us/education/cccs/2016/ela/>. Sample learning objectives are posted below the standards-aligned learning targets in each unit. The NJDOE model curriculum provides “ELL Scaffolded Student Learning Objectives” at: <http://www.state.nj.us/education/modelcurriculum/ela/ellscaffolding/1112u5.pdf>.

Learning Targets Aligned to Grade-Specific New Jersey Student Learning Standards:

- RL.11-12.1. Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text, including determining where the text leaves matters uncertain.
- RL.11-12.2. Determine two or more themes or central ideas of a text and analyze their development over the course of the text, including how they interact and build on one another to produce a complex account; provide an objective summary of the text.
- RL.11-12.3. Analyze the impact of the author's choices regarding how to develop and relate elements of a story or drama (e.g., where a story is set, how the action is ordered, how the characters are introduced and developed).
- RL.11-12.4. Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in the text, including figurative and connotative meanings; analyze the impact of specific word choices on meaning and tone, including words with multiple meanings or language that is particularly fresh, engaging, or beautiful. (Include Shakespeare as well as other authors.)
- RL.11-12.5. Analyze how an author's choices concerning how to structure specific parts of a text (e.g., the choice of where to begin or end a story, the choice to provide a comedic or tragic resolution) contribute to its overall structure and meaning as well as its aesthetic impact.
- RL.11-12.6. Analyze a case in which grasping a point of view requires distinguishing what is directly stated in a text from what is really meant (e.g., satire, sarcasm, irony, or understatement).
- RL.11-12.7. Analyze multiple interpretations of a story, drama, or poem (e.g., recorded or live production of a play or recorded novel or poetry), evaluating how each version interprets the source text. (Include at least one play by Shakespeare and one play by an American dramatist.)
- RI.11-12.1. Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text, including determining where the text leaves matters uncertain.
- RI.11-12.2. Determine two or more central ideas of a text and analyze their development over the course of the text, including how they interact and build on one another to provide a complex analysis; provide an objective summary of the text.
- RI.11-12.3. Analyze a complex set of ideas or sequence of events and explain how specific individuals, ideas, or events interact and develop over the course of the text.
- RI.11-12.4. Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including figurative, connotative, and technical meanings; analyze how an author uses and refines the meaning of a key term or terms over the course of a text (e.g., how Madison defines faction in Federalist No. 10).
- RI.11-12.5. Analyze and evaluate the effectiveness of the structure an author uses in his or her exposition or argument, including whether the structure makes points clear, convincing, and engaging.
- RI.11-12.6. Determine an author's point of view or purpose in a text in which the rhetoric is particularly effective, analyzing how style and content contribute to the power, persuasiveness or beauty of the text.

RI.11-12.10. By the end of grade 11, read and comprehend literary nonfiction in the grades 11–CCR text complexity band proficiently, with scaffolding as needed at the high end of the range.

By the end of grade 12, read and comprehend literary nonfiction at the high end of the grades 11–CCR text complexity band independently and proficiently.

W.11-12.1. Write arguments to support claims in an analysis of substantive topics or texts, using valid reasoning and relevant and sufficient evidence.

- Introduce precise, knowledgeable claim(s), establish the significance of the claim(s), distinguish the claim(s) from alternate or opposing claims, and create an organization that logically sequences claim(s), counterclaims, reasons, and evidence.
- Develop claim(s) and counterclaims fairly and thoroughly, supplying the most relevant evidence for each while pointing out the strengths and limitations of both in a manner that anticipates the audience’s knowledge level, concerns, values, and possible biases.
- Use words, phrases, and clauses as well as varied syntax to link the major sections of the text, create cohesion, and clarify the relationships between claim(s) and reasons, between reasons and evidence, and between claim(s) and counterclaims.
- Establish and maintain a formal style and objective tone while attending to the norms and conventions of the discipline in which they are writing.
- Provide a concluding statement or section that follows from and supports the argument presented.

W.11-12.2. Write informative/explanatory texts to examine and convey complex ideas, concepts, and information clearly and accurately through the effective selection, organization, and analysis of content.

- Introduce a topic; organize complex ideas, concepts, and information so that each new element builds on that which precedes it to create a unified whole; include formatting (e.g., headings), graphics (e.g., figures, tables), and multimedia when useful to aiding comprehension.
- Develop the topic thoroughly by selecting the most significant and relevant facts, extended definitions, concrete details, quotations, or other information and examples appropriate to the audience’s knowledge of the topic.
- Use appropriate and varied transitions and syntax to link the major sections of the text, create cohesion, and clarify the relationships among complex ideas and concepts.
- Use precise language, domain-specific vocabulary, and techniques such as metaphor, simile, and analogy to manage the complexity of the topic.
- Establish and maintain a formal style and objective tone while attending to the norms and conventions of the discipline in which they are writing.
- Provide a concluding statement or section that follows from and supports the information or explanation presented (e.g., articulating implications or the significance of the topic).

W.11-12.4. Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience. (Grade-specific expectations for writing types are defined in standards 1–3 above.)

W.11-12.5. Develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, editing, rewriting, or trying a new approach, focusing on addressing what is most significant for a specific purpose and audience.

W.11-12.6. Use technology, including the Internet, to produce, publish, and update individual or shared writing products in response to ongoing feedback, including new arguments or information.

W.11-12.7. Conduct short as well as more sustained research projects to answer a question (including a self-generated question) or solve a problem; narrow or broaden the inquiry when appropriate; synthesize multiple sources on the subject, demonstrating understanding of the subject under investigation.

W.11-12.9. Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research.

Apply grades 11–12 Reading standards to literature (e.g., “Demonstrate knowledge of eighteenth-, nineteenth- and early-twentieth-century foundational works of American literature, including how two or more texts from the same period treat similar themes or topics”).

Apply grades 11–12 Reading standards to literary nonfiction (e.g., “Delineate and evaluate the reasoning in seminal U.S. texts, including the application of constitutional principles and use of legal reasoning [e.g., in U.S. Supreme Court Case majority opinions and dissents] and the premises, purposes, and arguments in works of public advocacy [e.g., The Federalist, presidential addresses]”).

W.11-12.10. Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of tasks, purposes

- SL.11-12.1. Initiate and participate effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grades 11–12 topics, texts, and issues, building on others’ ideas and expressing their own clearly and persuasively.
 - Come to discussions prepared, having read and researched material under study; explicitly draw on that preparation by referring to evidence from texts and other research on the topic or issue to stimulate a thoughtful, well-reasoned exchange of ideas.
 - Work with peers to promote civil, democratic discussions and decision-making, set clear goals and deadlines, and establish individual roles as needed.
 - Propel conversations by posing and responding to questions that probe reasoning and evidence; ensure a hearing for a full range of positions on a topic or issue; clarify, verify, or challenge ideas and conclusions; and promote divergent and creative perspectives.
 - Respond thoughtfully to diverse perspectives; synthesize comments, claims, and evidence made on all sides of an issue; resolve contradictions when possible; and determine what additional information or research is required to deepen the investigation or complete the task.
- SL.11-12.3. Evaluate a speaker’s point of view, reasoning, and use of evidence and rhetoric, assessing the stance, premises, links among ideas, word choice, points of emphasis, and tone used.
- SL.11-12.4. Present information, findings, and supporting evidence, conveying a clear and distinct perspective, such that listeners can follow the line of reasoning, alternative or opposing perspectives are addressed, and the organization, development, substance, and style are appropriate to purpose, audience, and a range of formal and informal tasks.

- SL.11-12.5. Make strategic use of digital media (e.g., textual, graphical, audio, visual, and interactive elements) in presentations to enhance understanding of findings, reasoning, and evidence and to add interest.
- SL.11-12.6. Adapt speech to a variety of contexts and tasks, demonstrating a command of formal English when indicated or appropriate.
- L.11-12.1. Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English grammar and usage when writing or speaking.
 - Apply the understanding that usage is a matter of convention, can change over time, and is sometimes contested.
 - Resolve issues of complex or contested usage, consulting references (e.g., Merriam-Webster's Dictionary of English Usage, Garner's Modern American Usage) as needed.
- L.11-12.2. Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing.
 - Observe hyphenation conventions.
 - Spell correctly.
- L.11-12.3. Apply knowledge of language to understand how language functions in different contexts, to make effective choices for meaning or style, and to comprehend more fully when reading or listening.
 - Vary syntax for effect, consulting references (e.g., Tufte's Artful Sentences) for guidance as needed; apply an understanding of syntax to the study of complex texts when reading.
- L.11-12.4. Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words and phrases based on grades 11–12 reading and content, choosing flexibly from a range of strategies.
 - Use context (e.g., the overall meaning of a sentence, paragraph, or text; a word's position or function in a sentence) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase.
 - Identify and correctly use patterns of word changes that indicate different meanings or parts of speech (e.g., conceive, conception, conceivable).
 - Consult general and specialized reference materials (e.g., dictionaries, glossaries, thesauruses), both print and digital, to find the pronunciation of a word or determine or clarify its precise meaning, its part of speech, its etymology, or its standard usage.
 - Verify the preliminary determination of the meaning of a word or phrase (e.g., by checking the inferred meaning in context or in a dictionary).
- L.11-12.5. Demonstrate understanding of figurative language, word relationships, and nuances in word meanings.
 - Interpret figures of speech (e.g., hyperbole, paradox) in context and analyze their role in the text.
 - Analyze nuances in the meaning of words with similar denotations.

Technology Standards (<http://www.state.nj.us/education/cccs/2014/tech/8.pdf>):

- 8.1.12.A.2 Produce and edit a multi-page document for a commercial or professional audience using desktop publishing and/or graphics software

Career Awareness, Exploration, Preparation Standards

<http://www.state.nj.us/education/cccs/2014/career/92.pdf>):

- 2.6 Access and assess information on specific topics using both technological (e.g., computer, telephone, satellite) and print resources available in libraries or media centers.
- 2.7 Use technology and other tools to solve problems, collect data, and make decisions.
- 3.8 Organize, synthesize, and evaluate information for appropriateness and completeness.
- 4.6 Describe actions that demonstrate respect for people of different races, ages, religions, ethnicity, and gender.

21st Century Content Standards (<http://www.state.nj.us/education/cccs/2014/career/91.pdf>):

- 9.1.12.A.1 Apply critical thinking and problem-solving strategies during structured learning experiences.
- 9.1.12.B.1 Present resources and data in a format that effectively communicates the meaning of the data and its implications for solving problems, using multiple perspectives.

Sample Objectives	*Activities
Students will be able to: Students will review and question whether a variety of classic and contemporary short stories consistently define and support societal norms and rules. 2. Students will be able to read and analyze short stories critically. 3. Students will be able to analyze a variety of short stories effectively and with purpose. 4. Students will be able to compare and contrast the styles and themes of a variety of short stories and the lives of the authors of same stories. 5. Students will be able to utilize secondary sources and literary criticism to broaden their analytical approach to the reading a given fictional work. 6. VII. Interdisciplinary Connections and Alignment to Technology standardsEnglish/Media Arts

Students choose books for independent reading projects in collaboration with the high school media specialist.

Technology-based process supports the construction of the MLA-research paper. This includes a media-driven lesson on acceptable academic sources and computer-based production of a formal research paper.
