French 5 Honors

I. Course Synopsis

This course is composed of 6 thematic units. Each theme includes sub-themes for exploration. Each unit is anchored by essential questions. A cumulative goal is set to benchmark the development of linguistic proficiency.

Instructional procedures, techniques and methods will be differentiated, interactive and authentic. The students will be exposed to and will explore a variety of informational texts, graphics and electronic sources. They will apply technology in some of the following ways: conducting research, composing thoughts, sorting and organizing information, developing presentations and following webquests. Assessment will be ongoing and will include performance based tasks, reading comprehension and writing samples that further demonstrate and confirm the acquisition of language skills.

French V Honors is a high level course intended for students who meet the requirements set forth by the school district. Eligible students will already have a strong command of the language. The class will focus on the three modes of communication – Interpersonal, Interpretive, and Presentational. The students will participate in learning activities and class work in order to demonstrate their competence in these three important modes. The class is conducted exclusively in French, encouraging students to participate daily in the target language, thereby building their confidence in communication and personal expression. By placing this emphasis on communication, the course also highlights the other important aspects of language learning: exploring the Francophone culture, creating connections, building communities, and making comparison. During the year, the students will be exposed to the many French speaking countries of the world through literature, authentic documents, presentations, and audiovisual materials. Through extensive reading, writing and discussions in the target language, students will have the opportunity to develop their skills in literary analysis, oral presentation and stylistics. Review and enhancement of increasingly difficult grammatical structures and syntax form a solid basis for approaching the advanced placement examination and advanced proficiency in the target language.

II. Philosophy & Rationale

A. Modes of Communication:

The ability to communicate is at the heart of knowing another language. Communication can be characterized in many different ways. The approach used within the New Jersey and national standards is to recognize three communicative modes that place primary emphasis on the context and purpose of communication. The three modes are:

The interpretive mode: Students understand and interpret within the appropriate cultural context spoken and written communication. Examples of one way reading or listening includes but are not limited to the cultural interpretation of texts, movies, radio and television broadcasts and speeches.

Interpretation differs from comprehension because it implies the ability to listen “between the lines.”

The interpersonal mode: Students engage in direct oral and/or written communication. Examples involving two way interactive communication are conversing face to face or exchanging personal letters or email messages.

The presentational mode: Students present through oral and/or written communications information, concepts and ideas to an audience of listeners or readers with whom there is no immediate personal contact. Examples of this “one to many” mode of communication are making a presentation to a group or writing an article for the school newspaper.

B. “Can Do” statements

The NCSSFL-ACTFL Can-Do Statements are self assessment checklists used by language learners to assess what they “can do” with language in the Interpersonal, Interpretive, and Presentational modes of communication. The checklists are best used by learners and learning facilitators as part of an overall reflective learning process that includes:

- Setting goals

- Selecting strategies
- Selfassessing
- Providing evidence
- Reflecting before setting new goals

C. Proficiency vs. Performance

The American Council of Teachers of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) advises us to measure students' learning in terms of proficiency rather than performance. Language proficiency refers to a student's ability to communicate spontaneously in a language in a non-rehearsed context. It also refers to the degree of skill with which a student uses culturally appropriate language to read, write, listen and interpret the target language in real world scenarios. ACTFL has identified eleven different levels of language proficiency. (www.actfl.org)

D. Integrated Performance Assessment

The Integrated Performance Assessment (IPA) is a cluster assessment featuring three tasks, each of which reflects one of the three modes of communication Interpretive, Interpersonal and Presentational. The three tasks are aligned within a single theme or content area, reflecting the manner in which students naturally acquire and use the language in the real world or the classroom. Each task provides the information and elicits the linguistic interaction that is necessary for students to complete the subsequent task. They are standards based, performance based, developmental in nature, integrative. IPAs are designed to be used with scoring rubrics to show expectations.

III. Scope & Sequence

There are six thematic units (Units 1 - 6). Vocabulary, Language Functions, and Culture are embedded in each unit.

VIII. New Jersey Student Learning Standards

- New Jersey Student Learning Standards
<http://www.state.nj.us/education/NJSLS/2014/wl/WL1NM.pdf>

Characteristics of Intermediate High/ Pre-Advanced Learners: Intermediate level (high) / pre-advanced speakers are characterized by the ability to use simple discourse in a series of coherent paragraphs when speaking in diverse formal and informal contexts. They are able to understand most authentic spoken language, both orally and interpretively, and use this as a basis for creating a series of coherent paragraphs when writing or orally presenting information/ideas. In conversation, they can successfully express their thoughts with few significant patterns of error and use a wide range of appropriate vocabulary. With a sufficient amount of grammatical knowledge and vocabulary, they are able to circumlocute to effectively communicate their ideas when faced with difficulties.

Advanced–level speakers are characterized by the ability to:

1. Create with the language combining and recombining learned material to provide personal information
2. Engage in discourse on a variety of familiar topics to support and express opinions
3. Ask questions
4. Initiate, sustain and conclude a social or transactional task
5. Be generally understood by those accustomed to dealing with non native speakers
